Introduction

We understand that privacy and security of customer personal and financial information is of utmost importance. To this, we are committed to protecting information that we receive. In connection with the processing of the transactions, our goal in handling information provided to us is to comply with the applicable data privacy laws. The company collects information about our customers from a variety of sources including those listed below.

Overview of the AML Manual

“A22 INDUSTRY LTD”, is a Money Service Business company licensed by the Financial Transactions and Reports Analysis Centre of Canada (FINTRAC), Canada and as an entity has an important role to play in furthering the local and international efforts against money laundering and terrorist financing. The most effective way to fulfil this commitment and to protect both the company and its staff is to know your customer, be alert to suspicious activity and train all staff to be proficient at identifying suspicious activity on a regular basis.

Definition provided by the US Custom Service is comprehensive and useful in understanding the concept:

“Money laundering is the process whereby proceeds, reasonably believed to be derived from criminal activity, are transported, transferred, transformed, converted, or intermingled with legitimate funds for the purpose of concealing or disguising the true nature, source, disposition, movement or ownership of those proceeds. The goal of money laundering process is to make funds derived from, or associated with, illicit activity appears legitimate.”

Criminal activities, such as drug trafficking, smuggling, human trafficking, corruption and others, tend to generate large amounts of profits for the individuals or groups carrying out the criminal act. However, by using funds from such illicit sources, criminals risk drawing the authorities' attention to the underlying criminal activity and exposing themselves to criminal prosecution. In order to benefit freely from the proceeds of their crime, they must therefore conceal the illicit origin of these funds. Briefly described, "Money laundering" is the process by which proceeds from a criminal activity are disguised to conceal their illicit origin. More precisely, according to the Vienna Convention and the Palermo Convention provisions on money laundering, it may encompass three distinct, alternative actuaries: (i) the conversion or transfer, knowing that such property is the proceeds of crime (ii) the concealment or disguise of the true nature, source, location, disposition, movement or ownership of or rights with respect to property, knowing that such property is the proceeds of crime; and (iii) the acquisition, possession or use of property, knowing, at the time of the receipt, that such property is the proceeds of crime. Anti-Money-Laundering Manual Statement and Program Procedures

The Anti Money Laundering Program Procedures is developed, within the context of the Law, for the prevention and suppression of money laundering activities and terrorist financing. The procedure is developed to cover all procedures affected by the Law and to demonstrate the required due diligence on behalf of financial institutions such as banks, insurance companies and money transfer companies.

In addition to the Manual, the corresponding policies and forms are developed to facilitate and documented implementation. Customer identification, acceptance and evaluation, Monitoring and control of transactions, Internal reporting, review and renewal of customer identification, working with third parties, Management of employees are examples of the areas addressed.

Money Laundering Process: There are three stages to the money laundering process.

- Placement: Placement is the physical disposal of cash proceeds derived from illegal activity.
- Layering: Layering is the process of separating illicit proceeds from their source by creating complex layers of financial transactions designed to disguise the audit trail and provide anonymity.
- Integration: Integration is the provision of apparent legitimacy to criminally derived wealth. If layering process has succeeded, integration schemes place the laundered proceeds back into the economy in such a way that they re-enter the financial system and appear to be normal business funds.

Overview of the AML procedures Manual

This manual contains the procedures that must be followed and controls that must be implemented by all AML staff and agents to ensure compliance with both local and relevant international AML legislations. The company will review and update these procedures at least annually to take into consideration changes to the products, business conditions and regulatory environment. The annual review will also be used to evaluate how accurately the procedures reflect the product and how effectively they are in controlling the AML threat. All changes to this procedure manual must be approved by the management with significant changes also being approved by the management.

AML Compliance Officer Designation and Duties

As required under the AML Manual Act, the Company designates Markos Hadjiminis as the Anti-Money Laundering Program Compliance Officer, with full responsibility for the Company's anti-money laundering (AML) program. The AML Compliance Officer will also ensure that proper AML records are kept. When warranted, the AML Compliance Officer will ensure Suspicious Activity Reports are filed with the Company's designated self-regulatory agency.

Checking the Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) Lists

Before engaging in any money service activity (including but not limited to check cashing, money orders and wire transfers) which potentially may involve money laundering, and on an ongoing basis, we will check to ensure that a customer does not appear on the Treasury's OFAC "Specifically Designated Nationals and Blocked Persons" List, SDN List, and is not from, or engaging in transactions with people or entities from, embargoed countries and regions listed on the OFAC website. Because the OFAC Website is updated frequently, we will consult the list on a regular basis and subscribe to receive updates when they occur. We may, if necessary, access these lists through various software programs to ensure speed and accuracy. We will also review existing accounts against these lists when they are updated and we will document our review.

Customer Identification and Verification

We have established, documented, and maintained a written Customer Identification Program (or CIP). We will collect certain minimum customer identification information from each customer who engages in any money service activity with the Company; utilize risk-based measures to verify the identity of each customer who engages in any money service activity; record customer identification information and the verification methods and results; provide notice to customers that we will seek identification information.

Monitoring for Suspicious Activity

We will manually monitor a sufficient amount of money service activity to permit identification of patterns of unusual size, volume, pattern or type of transactions. The AML Compliance Officer will be responsible for this monitoring, will document when and how it is carried out, and will report suspicious activities to the appropriate authorities. We will create employee guidelines with examples of suspicious money laundering activity and lists of high-risk clients whose accounts may warrant further scrutiny.

AML Record Keeping

Our AML Compliance Officer and his or her designee will be responsible to ensure that AML records are maintained properly. As part of our AML program, the Company will create and maintain relevant documentation on customer identity and verification and funds transfers and transmittals as well as any records related to customers listed on the OFAC list. We will maintain and their accompanying documentation for at least seven years.

Bank Company Relationship

We will work closely with our banking firm to detect money laundering. We will exchange information, records, data and exception reports as necessary to comply with AML laws. Generally, we have agreed that the Company will monitor customer activity including proper customer identification information as required.

Training Programs

We developed ongoing employee training under the leadership of the AML Compliance Officer. Our training will occur on at least an annual basis. Based on our firm's size, its customer base, and its resources we have determined the training course to our staff. The training course offered includes, at a minimum: how to identify signs of money laundering that arise during the course of the employees' duties; what to do once the risk is identified; what employees' roles are in the firm's compliance efforts and how to perform them; the Company's record retention Manual; and the disciplinary consequences (including civil and criminal penalties) for non-compliance with the Act.

The training program includes the maintenance of the records to show the persons trained, the dates of training, and the subject matter of their training.

Monitoring Employee Conducts and Accounts

We will subject employee money service transactions to the same AML procedures as customer accounts, under the supervision of the AML Compliance Officer. We will also review the AML performance of supervisors, as part of their annual performance review.

The AML Compliance Officer's accounts will be reviewed by a qualified member of the Company staff.

Confidential Reporting of AML Non-Compliance

Employees will report any violations of the firm's AML compliance program to the AML Compliance Officer, unless the violations implicate the Compliance Officer, in which case the employee shall report to an appropriate member of senior management. Such reports will be confidential, and the employee will suffer no retaliation for making them.

Combating for the Financing of Terrorism

The main pieces of legislation relating to terrorist financing are:

- Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Act
- The Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Suspicious Transaction Reporting Regulations
- The Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Regulations
- The Cross-Border Currency and Monetary Instruments Reporting Regulations
- The Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Registration Regulations
- The Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Administrative Monetary Penalties Regulations
- FINTRAC's Interpretation Policy
- Ministerial directives and transaction restrictions

Terrorist financing may be derived from two primary sources, although there are other sources which are no less important. The first major source is the financial support provided by States or organisations with large enough infrastructures to collect funds and then make them available to terrorist organisations and also by individuals with sufficient financial means.

The second major source of funds for terrorist organisations is income derived directly from various "revenue-generating" activities. As with criminal organisations, a terrorist group's income may be derived from crime or other unlawful activities such as large-scale smuggling, various types of fraud, thefts and robbery, and narcotics trafficking.

Nine Special Recommendations on Terrorist Financing

In October 2001 the FATF expanded its mandate, which was until then limited to money laundering, to deal with the issue of the financing of terrorism, and took the important step of creating the Eight Special Recommendations on Terrorist Financing⁵. These Recommendations contain a set of measures aimed at combating the funding of terrorist acts and terrorist organisations, and are complementary to the Forty Recommendations.

Further, in October 2004 the FATF added a key element to the world's counter-terrorist financing defences by issuing a new measure, Special Recommendation IX on Cash Couriers⁵, which calls on countries to stop cross-border movements of currency and monetary instruments related to terrorist financing and money laundering and confiscate such funds. The Financial Action Task Force (FATF)

The Financial Action Task Force (FATF) is an inter-governmental body established in 1989 by the Ministers of its Member jurisdictions. The objectives of the FATF are to set standards and promote effective implementation of legal, regulatory and operational measures for combating money laundering, terrorist financing and other related threats to the integrity of the international financial system. The FATF is therefore a “Manual-making body” which works to generate the necessary political will to bring about national legislative and regulatory reforms in these areas.

The FATF has developed a series of Recommendations that are recognised as the international standard for combating of money laundering and the financing of terrorism and proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. They form the basis for a co-ordinated response to these threats to the integrity of the financial system and help ensure a level playing field. First issued in 1990, the FATF Recommendations were revised in 1996, 2001, 2003 and most recently in 2012 to ensure that they remain up to date and relevant, and they are intended to be of universal application.

The FATF monitors the progress of its members in implementing necessary measures, reviews money laundering and terrorist financing techniques and counter-measures, and promotes the adoption and implementation of appropriate measures globally. In collaboration with other international stakeholders, the FATF works to identify national-level vulnerabilities with the aim of protecting the international financial system from misuse.

The Financial Action Task Force (FATF) was established in July 1989 by a Group of Seven (G-7) Summit in Paris, initially to examine and develop measures to combat money laundering.

In October 2001, the FATF expanded its mandate to incorporate efforts to combat terrorist financing, in addition to money laundering.

Since its inception, the FATF has operated under a fixed life-span, requiring a specific decision by its Ministers to continue. The current mandate of the FATF (2012-2020) was adopted at a Ministerial meeting in April 2012.

The objectives of the FATF are to set standards and promote effective implementation of legal, regulatory and operational measures for combating money laundering, terrorist financing and other related threats to the integrity of the international financial system. Starting with its own members, the FATF monitors countries' progress in implementing the FATF Recommendations; reviews money laundering and terrorist financing techniques and counter-measures; and, promotes the adoption and implementation of the FATF Recommendations globally. (Source: www.fatf-gafi.org)
